

WHAT IS

IV Nutrient Therapy

IV Nutrition can promote cellular health through the administration of vitamins, nutrients, amino acids, and antioxidants directly into the bloodstream, bypassing the need for gastrointestinal absorption.

There are 200 Trillion cells in the human body, all capable of self-healing and restoring health and balance. For these cells to properly execute their functions, the body must have enough resources. Our fast-paced lifestyles and lack of proper nutrition can leave our bodies depleted of essential vitamins, nutrients, amino acids, and antioxidants. Factors like individual metabolism, age, and genetics also impact our body's ability to absorb nutrients through the intestine. Nutrition delivered directly into the bloodstream can aid in restoring balance and play a critical role in physical, mental, and emotional health and well-being.
